The Commission's most important accomplishment during 2007 was the first annual workshop on historic preservation. Falken Foreshaw presented information regarding the City's history, especially development activities during the 1950's. Mr. Foreshaw's presentation brought to light the presence of a unique historical residential design located within the City of Lynnwood. Approximately fifteen people were in attendance, including past owners/occupants of historic residences and structures. Notices were sent to over 100 property owners of homes constructed before and during the 1950's. It is the intent of the Commission to make a historic presentation an annual event.

The Commission finalized the prototype design, in conjunction with August "Lucky" Hurban, for the plaques to be included in the Historic Landmark Plaque project. The first commemorative bronze plaque of the Wickers Building was dedicated in the month of October. The Commission has begun design and text for plaques to be placed at the Scriber Creek Bridge, the Bennett Residence, Wilcox Park, and the Masonic Lodge.

Another important accomplishment this year was the fifth annual recognition of May as Historic Preservation Month in the City. The event took place during a City Council meeting and included presentation of a Certificate of Recognition to Scott and India Rochel for preservation of the Conklin/Hayes/Rochel Residence (determined eligible for the City of Lynnwood Register of Historic Landmarks) and a proclamation by Mayor Gough declaring May as Lynnwood Historic Preservation Month.

Citizen education continued to be a priority. Commission members took part in Lynnwood's Diversity Fair, distributing materials to members of the public.

The Commission continued to work with other City Boards and Commissions on projects with historical links. The Commission reviewed design plans of the City Parks Department for renovation of the Water Tower at Heritage Park. The Commission worked with Professor Thomas Murphy at Edmonds Community College to identify student projects.

The Commission focused this year on Board Development. Members attended workshops and conferences on Historic Preservation. Several members attended a Heritage Conference in Olympia emphasizing historic preservation. Members also visited the Port Gamble Museum and Suquamish Museum.

Finally, an emphasis for the Commission is continued recognition during development to insure that the importance of historic sites is not lost.

Members of the Historical Commission looks forward to working on projects in 2008 which will come to fulfillment in the year 2009 which marks the 50th Anniversary of the incorporation of the City of Lynnwood. Among projects which the Commission will explore is a detailed rewrite of the history of Lynnwood, including statistics, facts, and references. The Commission will also undertake an oral history project with interviews of key individuals who took part in the history of the City. Dedication of significant plaques is anticipated including plaques at the Bennett residence (first Mayor of the City of Lynnwood) and at the site of the original City Hall. The Commission looks forward to working with other Boards and Commissions in the City as we welcome the City into its "Golden Age."
